Quarterly manager commentary

Market update

The second quarter of 2023 was positive for growth assets and generally flat to slightly negative for fixed income.

Globally, inflation continued to ease, although at different rates depending on country or region. However, major central banks continued to raise rates during the quarter though, notably, the US Federal Reserve kept rates on hold at its June meeting. Looking forward, with the global economy continuing to show resilience, despite tighter credit conditions, markets appear to be more optimistic. Growth assets, in particular, reflect this optimism and are pricing in an increased likelihood of a “soft landing”.

Hedged Developed Market Overseas Shares returned 7.1% over the June quarter as inflationary expectations receded, and Unhedged Overseas shares outperformed, adding 7.6%. Australian Shares posted a modest gain of 1.0% over Q2 as performance was mixed across sectors. Materials (-2.6%) and Healthcare (-3.1%) sectors were the most significant detractors, offset by gains in Information Technology (18.5%) and Financial (3.1%) sectors. Emerging market equities returned 1.5%, lagging behind developed markets, as the tailwinds expected from China’s post-covid reopening have disappointed so far. Brazil was a top performer (15.9%), given its early monetary policy intervention and apparent success with fighting inflation.

Hedged Overseas Government Bonds returned -0.7% as bond yields moved higher over the quarter. The period was marked by the machinations and subsequent resolution of US Debt ceiling negotiations, leading to a substantial drop in market volatility. High yield outperformed investment grade bonds as fixed interest markets are also pricing in a more optimistic “soft landing” scenario. Over the quarter, US inflation expectations were mostly unchanged with the 10-year inflation breakeven rate ending June at 2.2%.

The Australian Dollar (AUD) depreciated against most major developed market currencies over the June quarter with the US Dollar (-0.6%), Pound

Sterling (-3.3%) and Euro (-1.0%). Against the trend, the AUD appreciated against the Japanese Yen (7.9%). On a trade-weighted basis, the local currency appreciated by 2.3% over the quarter.

In terms of commodities, the S&P GSCI Commodity Total Return Index decreased by 2.1% over the quarter. Gold prices finished June at US$1,916.00/oz, falling 3.1% over the three months, and Iron Ore prices were decidedly weaker, dropping 10.6% to US$113.50/t. Oil was another key commodity that fell over the quarter, down 6.6% to US$74.51/barrel (Brent Crude) and a large contributor to the drop in the headline inflation rate.

Portfolio Update

The portfolio delivered a return of 0.49% for the June quarter compared to its benchmark return of 1.08%.

Australian equities lagged global equity markets over the June quarter, returning 1.0% for the period. Concerns over higher rates and economic growth led to subdued returns with both Healthcare (-3.1%) and Materials (-2.6%) sectors underperforming over the quarter. The Information Technology sector (18.5%) was a notable outperformer over the quarter, leading to higher returns amongst growth style investors. On a relative basis, small cap equities lagged larger cap peers once again with the ASX Small Ordinaries index returning -0.5% over the period.

Ausbil Australian Emerging Leaders Fund outperformed its benchmark over the quarter, returning 5.8%. Positive contributions came from overweight exposure to Information Technology and Utilities sectors, as well as underweights to Consumer Discretionary and Consumer Staples. The strategy is deliberately style indifferent as it seeks to identify earnings and earnings revisions at an early stage in order to anticipate stock price movements and exploit inefficiencies, subsequently tilting the portfolio towards opportunities that appear compelling over the next 12 months. The Martin Currie Equity Income Fund outperformed its benchmark over the quarter, returning 2.3% as allocations to Non-bank Financials and Industrials were the largest positive contributors. Mining and Consumer Discretionary sectors were the biggest detractors. The strategy continues to complement the portfolio by investing in well-diversified, high-quality securities that typically pay higher income, provide inflation protection and have lower volatility than the benchmark, all while maintaining low security and sector concentration.

Global equities enjoyed another strong quarter, driven by a combination of a surge AI-related tech stocks and inflation pulling back from peak levels. The MSCI World ex-Australia jumped 7.6% on an unhedged basis and 7.1% in hedged terms. Signs of improved economic data raised hope of a soft economic landing, as global corporate earnings started to show encouraging signs and markets were able to shrug off recent US regional bank failures.

At a sector level, the strongest performers were Information Technology, Consumer Discretionary and Communication Services. Utilities and Energy were the weakest sectors over the quarter, reflecting a preference for growth sectors. Global Small Caps, up 4%, lagged the broader market, whilst Emerging Markets struggled on a relative basis, rising 1.5% for the quarter. Weakness in China, fuelled by a soft post-Covid reopening, was a major factor in the sector's performance over the quarter. This was partially offset by a strong showing from Brazil (15.9%), which was boosted by its early monetary policy intervention and apparent success in tempering inflation.

Epoch Global returned 3.5% over the quarter, underperforming its benchmark by 4.3%. Communication Services was the largest detractor to relative returns due to stock selection. Despite this, we are comfortable with portfolio positioning as the strategy provides conservative investors with additional income generation through an allocation to high-yielding global equities. IFP returned 7.3% over the quarter, slightly underperforming its benchmark. The largest relative sector contributors to the Fund included holdings in Communication Services, Industrials and Financials. This fund aims to identify well managed companies with strong and sustainable franchise that, over the long term, provides investors with strong risk adjusted returns.

Listed infrastructure experienced a negative return over the quarter with the FTSE Global Core Infrastructure 50/50 Hedged index returning -0.9%. Railroads were the best performing sub-sector, benefitting from strong US economic data, such as new residential construction projects and positive employment numbers. The Lazard Global Listed Infrastructure Fund outperformed the benchmark over the quarter, returning 2.1%. A key driver of performance was stock selection within Northern America and Europe. This strategy offers investors diversification benefits to a portfolio, particularly during times of high inflation as we have seen in the last year.

REITs lagged broader equity markets over the June quarter with the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Index returning 0.5%. Positive returns were seen from exposure to North America, driven by stronger than expected economic data. Asian REITs detracted over the quarter, particularly Office REITs within both Hong Kong and Singapore. Globally, industrial sectors again drove returns, in particular data centres, with stronger returns also observed by single family rentals.

Resolution Capital Global Property Securities underperformed the benchmark over the quarter, returning 0.7%. An overweight position and stock selection in the Retail segment, plus stock selection within the Healthcare segment, detracted from its relative performance. This strategy offers global listed property exposure with broad sector holdings & many inflation-linked cash flows, as well as diversification to equity investments and investments driven by Australian economic activity.

The second quarter 2023 brought mixed results for bond investors. Government bond yields rose, causing long duration assets to suffer, particularly in the UK and Australia, due to higher-than-expected inflation and central banks' firm stance on combating inflation. With the exception of the Bank of Japan, major central banks continued to raise interest rates during the period. However, in June the US Federal Reserve was the first to pause, keeping rates steady at its 5% to 5.25% range after a year of consecutive increases, although its accompanying rhetoric remained "hawkish".

Short-term interest rates continued to rise, with the Australian Reserve Bank implementing two 0.25% rate hikes, bringing the cash interest rate to 4.10%. Credit spreads tightened during Q2 2023 as confidence in issuers' ability to meet debt obligations grew. The Australian dollar finished the quarter lower, influenced by lower commodity prices and a weaker Chinese economy. It fell from U.S. 67.1 cents to U.S. 66.3 cents but saw gains against the Japanese Yen.

PIMCO Global Credit returned -0.17%, outperforming its benchmark by 0.24%. Australian and US duration positioning contributing positively to performance. Furthermore, selective exposures to investment grade corporates and securitised assets also benefitted the fund's performance. This strategy offers investors high-yield global corporate bond exposure that diversifies the growth asset and core fixed interest exposure in the portfolio. Macquarie True Index Australian Fixed Interest Fund produced a negative return of -2.9% over the quarter.

Portfolio changes during the quarter

Following the global equities review, the decision was made to remove the Royal London Concentrated Global Share Fund allocation and reduce exposure to the hedged IFP Global Franchise Fund. Proceeds were reallocated by increasing the allocations to the unhedged IFP Global Franchise Fund and T. Rowe Price Global Equity. In combination with these changes, trades were also executed to reduce the overweight to growth assets and better align the portfolios to their SAA targets. This was implemented via a reduction in the allocation to Ausbil Australian Emerging Leaders Fund and a proportionate reduction across the global equities sleeve. These trades funded the introduction of an allocation to the Pandal Short Term Income Securities Fund.

Changes made as a result of Mercer's Global Equities Asset Class Review:

- Increase of T.Rowe Price Global Equity (Hedged) (+1.0%)
- Addition of Pandal Global Select Fund (+8.5%)
- Addition of Pzena Global Focused Value (+6.3%)
- Addition of Skerryvore Emerging Markets Fund (+3.7%)
- Removal of Fidelity Asia (-7.7%)
- Reduction of Royal London Concentrated Global Share (-3.8%)
- Removal of IFP Global Franchise IIA (-6.1%)
- Reduction of IFP Global Franchise Fund (Hedged) (-0.4%)
- Reduction of Fairlight Global Small & Mid Cap (SMID) Fund (-1.5%)

Market Outlook

Looking ahead, Mercer expects weak growth for the next few quarters for much of the developed world as central banks are likely to maintain restrictive policy settings to temper inflation. However, Mercer does not believe a hard landing is likely, given the health of household and corporate balance sheets. One important and potentially brighter spot is China. In Mercer's view, despite a disappointing economic performance post its Covid lockdown, it expects policy to remain supportive and for economic conditions to improve.

In Australia, whilst economic conditions have held up, Mercer continues to believe that risks to economic growth remain to the downside with the rise in mortgage rates and flow-on impact for domestic consumption the main driver. Meanwhile, maintaining a view that inflation is likely to moderate this year, albeit with the risk that core inflation will decline more slowly, given the pressures in both labour and residential rental markets. Consequently, Mercer believes the critical risk is the RBA cash rate being held higher for longer, as the central bank seeks to manage these various pressures.

From an asset class perspective, given market pricing relative to potential downside macroeconomic risk, Mercer maintains a neutral view on global equities though persisting with its cautious bias. Mercer also retains a neutral view on Australian equities with a similar, cautious bias in light of potential risks to the domestic economic outlook. However, Mercer holds a more favourable view of growth fixed income, given the yields on offer.
